The 'Success' on Vostok 1 Bamboo's entry in the Guinness Book of World Records is relatively famous, but I can't find a solid explanation on Wikipedia or the Guinness page for the event. I've heard it said that it is the first successful atmospheric flight by a balloon, but I'm not satisfied with that answer. Please provide a better answer than a Wikipedia quote and/or name a reference. A: First of all, an earlier flight by a balloon was made by Jacques Charles, in 1783. It's often said, (unfortunately) that Vostok 1 Bamboo is the first human ascent. I found an explanation of the event on an Astronautix webpage. It seems that there is no real official explanation, but there is one interesting source which shows that it was recognised as a success: d0c515b9f4
