referred to as a photoreceptor 4) and detecting the reflected light from the test specimen by a sensor unit 2. The illumination system 1 is disposed at the first surface 4a of the photoreceptor 4, which is substantially parallel to the surface of a test specimen 20 in order to illuminate the test specimen 20 as a test surface to be irradiated with the laser light beam. The illumination system 1 includes a laser light source 5 for emitting a laser light beam, a condensing lens 6 for condensing the laser light beam emitted from the laser light source 5, a focal point adjusting lens 7 for adjusting a focal point of the laser light beam condensed by the condensing lens 6, a slit 8 for dividing the laser light beam having passed through the focal point adjusting lens 7 into a plurality of light beams, a reflection mirror 9 for reflecting the light beams divided by the slit 8 to be perpendicular to an optical axis of the condensed laser light beam, a diaphragm 10 for defining a shape of the laser light beam divided by the slit 8, an imaging lens 11 for forming a slit image of the light beams through the diaphragm 10, a reflecting mirror 12 for reflecting a light beam emitted from the imaging lens 11 toward the test surface 20, and a converging lens 13 for converging the light beam reflected by the test surface 20, which is formed by the reflecting mirror 12. The laser light source 5 is supplied with power and emits a laser light beam. The condensing lens 6 condenses the laser light beam emitted from the laser light source 5 and directs the laser light beam toward the focal point adjusting lens 7. The focal point adjusting lens 7 adjusts the focal point of the laser light beam having passed through the condensing lens 6 and directs the laser light beam toward the reflecting mirror 9. The reflecting mirror 9 reflects the laser light beam toward the diaphragm 10. The diaphragm 10 divides the laser light beam

I found that the authorization manager in version 6 of GlassFish allows for specifying a list of components to be installed. There is a org.glassfish.application.admin.server.ApplicationCommandService object (in Java EE 6 or above), and GlassFish Identity Service (identity
