As always, there was something new and interesting to see. But this year’s gallery openings were all about one thing: Happiness. At least, that was the message sent in the titles of all the shows. At Baldassarre Perilli’s “Happiness” gallery at the Amsterdam gallery Thug-Lard on K Street, the “world’s newest gallery specializing in happiness” was on display. I was expecting a big crowd, a sold-out gallery show, a huge Rolodex of artists with whom Perilli had contacts, perhaps a pop-up “Happiness” store on the corner or something. The gallery was large, the space was spectacular, the views of the Potomac were
