How to use and install homebrew On Ubuntu 19.10 I've seen instructions like this: When you first install Homebrew, you will need to log out. Hit the usual "Log out" button, not "Lock screen". I don't have any way to do that. However, I do have a working X.org session (display is lit). I'm now thinking that all I need to do is start some command to finish the setup and go back to the login screen. However, I'm not sure what such a command is. A: From the Homebrew site Note: Due to a security vulnerability in Wayland, Ubuntu 19.10 systems running Wayland should still be using Xorg. Make sure X is started (either with startx, if the system is started via lightdm or just reboot) before running brew update and brew install. Then do brew install docker && brew install rust to the earlier court orders, it did not appear that the State was pursuing a single prosecution, instead intending to try multiple counts against McCarroll in a single proceeding.
