a65 the master public key should be used in the future. the master public key should be kept in a safe location, and the same master public key should be shared with all entities who want to encrypt messages with the same system. a version of the xforcekeyupdater binary for mudbox 2018. this updater will update your mudbox keymaps. the binary was designed to be used along side xforcekeygen and to do nothing else. feel free to use the binary to update your keymaps. ./xforcekeygenmudbox2018key this will invoke xforcekeygen and then start the binary. if a keymap was in the original xforcekeygen process, and the newly-generated file was written out to that same directory, it will be overwritten.
this is what you want when updating keymaps: you generate a new one using this binary and then overwrite the file created by the original binary in its place.

`./xforcekeygen-2018_3.0` this will invoke `xforcekeygen` and then start the binary.

the binary will attempt to generate a keymap for mudbox 2018 (if you were previously using mudbox 2017.13), if a keymap could not be generated the updater will exit. if you want to generate an earlier keymap, invoke the binary with a command like this: `--help`, `-?` show help and exit. `--time`, `-t` seconds to spend on calculations.

`xforcekeygenmudbox2018keyflags`
`--force`, `-f` force redownloading of file.
`--forcetime`, `-t` seconds to spend on redownloading.

`xforcekeygenmudbox2018keyusage`
`--usage` print out usage. `--version`, `-v` print version of the script. `--versiondir`, `-d` directory to put the executable in.

`xforcekeygenmudbox2018keyexample`
`--time 15`

`xforcekeygenmudbox2018keyoutput`
`--version forcekeygenmudbox2018key v1.0` current version:

`forcekeygenmudbox2018key v1.0` explanation of the parameters the `--time`, `-t` parameter specifies the amount of time, in seconds, to spend on the calculation
