RedStone Community Services, an organization of the people, is seeking donations for masks, gloves, hand sanitizer, disinfectant and other supplies to help first responders to the COVID-19 pandemic, as well as those working in the child welfare system. Organizer Mary Caldwell said the organization is creating its website to solicit the donations and also to show those who are on the front lines of the pandemic what they may have forgotten. This is an organization for anyone who wants to help people in need, she said. "This is not for profit," Caldwell said. People can drop off their donations on site, and supplies will be distributed to those who need them. The supplies will be sent to the Missouri State Penitentiary, where the prison crews are taking great care of the first responders to the COVID-19 pandemic, she added. Caldwell said the supplies are being sent to the State Penitentiary, and then to all the local jails. The group is accepting donations online by clicking on the "donate" button. No names will be disclosed. Organizer Mary Caldwell said the hope is to raise the needed funds to buy medication and supplies for emergency responders to the COVID-19 pandemic, as well as those working in the child welfare system. "We're asking people for anything they can raise," she said. She said she hopes the supplies will not only benefit the people on the front lines of the pandemic, but also those who are working hard to protect us. "
