Field of the Invention This invention relates to a composition for orally administering a drug and a preparation thereof, particularly to an improved composition for orally administering a drug. More particularly, this invention relates to a composition for orally administering a drug which is superior in dissolution properties and stability, which does not show a severe increase in the dissolution rate of the drug at an acidic pH, which shows an excellent absorption property after oral administration, which does not show a sharp decrease in the amount of drug dissolved in water, and which can rapidly dissolve the drug with small amount of water, and a preparation thereof. 2. Description of the Prior Art In general, a drug is soluble in water, whereas a polymer is usually soluble in a solvent which is not miscible with water. For this reason, when a drug and a polymer are mixed together, the drug and the polymer are not dissolved uniformly in the solvent. As a result, the dissolution of the drug from the polymer mass is insufficient. For example, in case of solid oral dosage forms, not only insufficient dissolution is observed but also the prepared solid dosage forms are pulverized, resulting in poor tabletability. The above phenomena also occur when a drug and a polymer are mixed together in a water solution, and various researches have been made thereon. As a result of such studies, it was found that a drug and a polymer can be dissolved uniformly in a solvent which is miscible with water and is different from the solvent used for the preparation of the polymer, for example, a solution of the drug and the polymer in an organic solvent, and then the thus-prepared solvent solution can be prepared into an oral dosage form. In recent years, attempts to improve the dissolution of the
