A 1986 profile in Newsweek said, "The place to see the video is at Warden's Park, where the parishioners of St. Anthony's Church have taken up part of the fields between the proposed railroad tracks and the fence that surrounds the jail." Brown, along with his wife, worked for five years to try and save the life of Jimmy Lee Shue. When Shue committed suicide on December 23, 1988, Shue left behind a suicide note for the Brown family. Shue wrote "I have killed the life of a man, women, children because I didn't want to die. I am sorry for the wrong I have done. I want to go home to God now. I am so sorry." His body was located a few months later by Brown and his wife at a frozen-foods market in Toccoa, Georgia. Shue's suicide note was donated to the prison library, and is in a locked safe, as of February 2007. In the book Public Men, Brown told of being
