Space theme ride shuts down for long overdue maintenance The Arizona Science Center's plan to launch a balloon-based ride into space, and later to be on the site of the U.S. Space & Rocket Center, was awarded $1.6 million in state economic incentives in June. The state incentives, championed by Rep. Jim Kolbe and Sen. Rick Murphy, were needed to help kick-start construction, and the space theme ride is supposed to be on the site of the U.S. Space & Rocket Center by the time summer arrives. But like a lot of projects in the state, construction on the Space Station Parallel universe is held up by a long-needed top-to-bottom overhaul. "We're not even at the last week of internal construction," said the center's CEO, Mike Kerin. "We're pretty close to finishing up, we think, as
